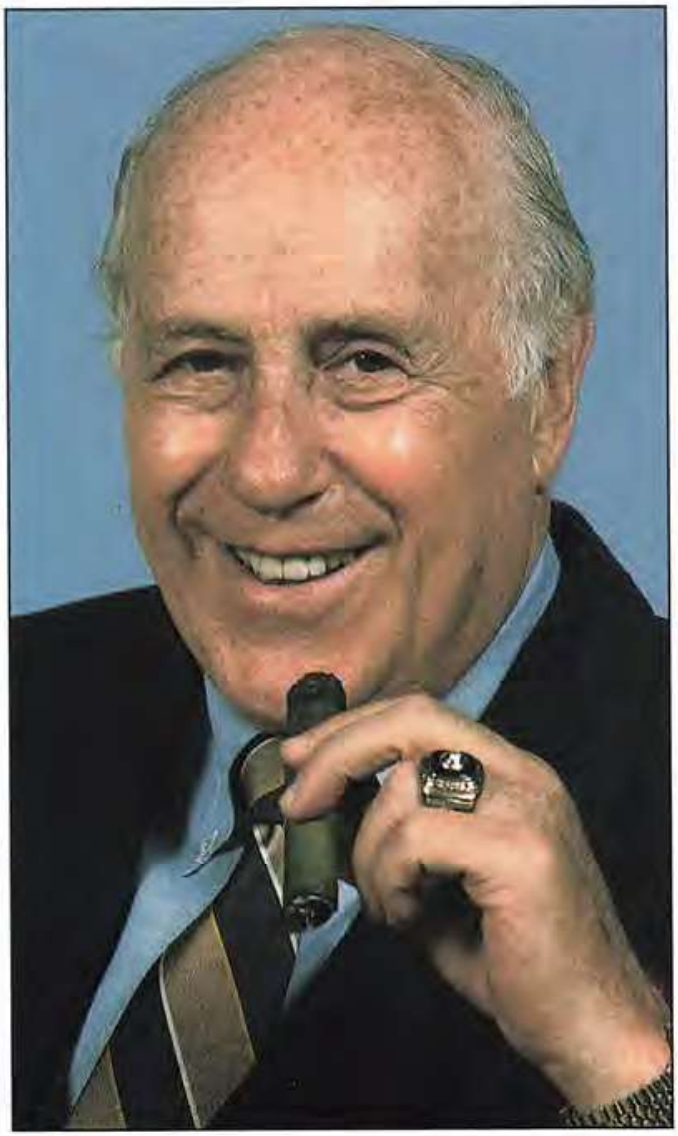
RED AUERBACH

President

Arnold "Red" Auerbach once proclaimed: "The Boston Celtics are not a basketball team, they are a way of life." Auerbach, a member of the National Basketball Association since its formation in 1946, has been with the Celtics since 1950. He, like the Celtics, are a way of life.

Auerbach spent the first three seasons of his pro career with the Washington Capitols before moving on to the Tri-Cities Hawks for one campaign. At this point, Walter Brown, who owned the struggling Boston Celtics, appointed Auerbach as the man to lead the squad into what would become the greatest franchise in pro basketball annals.



Auerbach carefully crafted a competitive team and his moves culminated with an April 29, 1956 transaction that sent Ed Macauley and Cliff Hagan to St. Louis for the Hawks first-round pick; the Celtics chose Bill Russell. This blockbuster trade would spur the Celtics into the most dominant franchise in pro basketball history and helped spawn the legend that is Auerbach and the Celtics. From 1950-1966, Auerbach coached the Celtics to nine world titles including eight in succession from 1959-1966.

His incredible record was 938-479 (.662) in regular season play and an equally impressive 99-69 (.589) in postseason encounters. Starting with the 1966-67 season, the "coach" removed himself from the bench in order to concentrate on his duties as General Manager and appointed Bill Russell as player-coach.

With Red's guidance and knowledge, the Celtics continued to win. In 1968 and 1969, the Celtics added two more titles. But after a down period in the early 1970's, Auerbach restructured the team adding key personnel through trades and the draft, and ultimately raised banners in 1974 and 1976. It was after these years that Auerbach would have his toughest test, as the late 70's were a dismal period for the Celtics. Yet, Auerbach once again saved the franchise with the shrewd selection of Larry Bird in the 1978 draft. Although he would have to wait a year before Bird could play in the NBA, Auerbach sensed that the Indiana-native was the man to rejuvenate the proud organization. Five other teams had a shot at Bird, but all passed.

In 1981, Boston became the NBA champions again as Auerbach orchestrated another amazing trade, as he dealt the first and thirteenth picks in the 1981 draft to Golden State for Robert Parish and the third overall pick (Kevin McHale). Boston added titles in 1984 and 1986 thanks to the master's keen additions of Danny Ainge, Dennis Johnson, Bill Walton and others.

Auerbach has been the recipient of numerous distinguished awards and honors throughout his career. In 1968, he was enshrined in the Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, MA for all his successes. When the NBA chose its Silver Anniversary Team honoring the best of the league's first 25 years, Red was chosen as coach of that distinguished team. In 1982, he was elected to the Washington Hall of Stars, a Hall of Fame which involves people from all sports. Red was also honored as NBA Coach of the Year in 1965, a trophy that now bears his name, and NBA Executive of the Year in 1980. Also, in that year, he was selected to the NBA's 35th Anniversary Team as "Greatest Coach in the History of the NBA," by the PBWAA.

In 1985, The Red Auerbach Fund, the establishment of a fund in the great coach's name, was created to promote athletic, recreational and other youth development activities in Boston and throughout the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. January 4, 1985 will always be a special day in Red's heart and in Boston sports history as the Celtics' family saluted its patriarch by having the number two retired in his honor (emblematic as the second most important person in the organization's annals, founder Walter Brown has the number 1). Nine months later, September 20, 1985 (Red's 68th birthday), a life-size sculpture of Auerbach was unveiled and placed in Boston's notorious Faneuil Hall Marketplace so the public would have a lasting tribute to this basketball genius and legend.

He has received seven honorary degrees from various institutions. Red values such honors so much that he kept a previous commitment to American International College by delivering their commencement speech although it required him to be a no-show in the Boston Garden for the May 22, 1988 deciding game in the Celtics-Hawks best-of-seven thriller. AIC presented Auerbach with a Doctor of Humanities Honorary Degree. A week earlier, May 15, he received a Doctor of Arts Honorary Degree from Stonehill College. He has also received Honorary Doctorate Degrees in Humane Letters from Franklin Pierce College May 24, 1981, the University of Massachusetts (Boston) in 1982, and from Boston University May 13, 1984. In 1986, Central New England College honored him with an Honorary Doctorate Degree in Business Administration. February 14, 1993, his alma mater, George Washington, bestowed an honorary Doctorate of Public Service Degree.

Red is the author of five books. His first, Basketball for the Player, the Fan and Coach, has been translated into seven languages and is the largest-selling basketball book in print. His second book, Winning the Hard Way, was co-authored with Paul Sann. Then came the first of two publications written in conjunction with Joe Fitzgerald. Red Auerbach: An Autobiography was the title of that book. The more recent publication is, Red Auerbach On and Off the Court. In October, 1991, Auerbach's latest book, M.B.A.: Management by Auerbach was co-authored with Ken Dooley. In 1987, an excellent instructional video entitled, Winning Basketball, became available to the public featuring the insight, thoughts and philosophy of Red and three-time NBA Most Valuable Player and Celtics' captain Larry Bird.

Born in Brooklyn, New York, Red attended Eastern District High School in that city, and attended Seth Low Junior College in New York and George Washington University in the District of Columbia. He played three years of college basketball at GW, and was the team's leading scorer and defensive specialist. He received a Bachelor of Science in Education in 1940 from GW and a Master of Arts in Education from GW the following year.

Red (9/20/17) and his wife Dorothy live in Washington, D.C. The couple, married since 1941, are the proud parents of two daughters, Nancy, who is married to CNN anchorman Reid Collins, and Randy, who is Vice-President of Creative Affairs for Blue Tulip Productions in Hollywood. Red and Dorothy have one granddaughter, Julie, a housewife and student at GW, who is married to Eric Fleiger. Red and Dorothy have a great-grandson Peter Auerbach Fleiger (8/25/95).

JAN VOLK

Executive Vice-President and General Manager

The Boston Celtics have a legendary existence, one that is nearly unequalled in the world of professional sports and undeniably incomparable in basketball annals. Prosperity on the floor is a product of superior behind-the-scenes management. In Jan Volk, the Celtics have a passionate leader who maintains a rare devotion for the city of Boston and the team's innumerable supporters.

Entering his 26th year with the Celtics, and his thirteenth as the General Manager, Volk has been part of five NBA World Championship teams (1974, 1976, 1981, 1984, and 1986). He has been an instrumental figure in molding teams which since 1979 have a record of 899-495 (.645) and have collected ten Atlantic Division titles, five Eastern Conference crowns, and three NBA Championship titles. Furthermore, the 1986 club, which he was a key architect, is universally applauded as one of the greatest teams in the sport's history. He has made many player transactions that have strengthened the Celtics, and in some cases those moves have led to confounding reactions from baffled rivals. Volk is accountable for the acquisitions, contractual negotiations, renegotiations, and ultimate signings of all current Celtics' players.

Chris Aduama

Volk has a well-deserved reputation as an authority on the NBA salary cap, which is a unique system of checks and balances designed to manage the escalating costs of players salaries in step with overall league revenues.

A native of Davenport, Iowa, Volk grew up in Newton, MA attending Newton High School (now Newton North). He graduated from Colby College in 1968 and received his Juris Doctor degree from Columbia University School of Law in 1971. After passing the Massachusetts Bar Exam in June of 1971, he began his full-time employment with the Celtics.

Starting as Director of Ticket Sales, Volk gradually broadened his areas of responsibility and experience. He took over the team's equipment purchases and travel arrangements, before becoming Business Manager. Slowly, he began to convince Auerbach that his legal expertise could be utilized in the negotiating and drafting of player contracts. In 1974, Volk became the team's Legal Counsel and in 1976 he was named Vice-President of the club. In 1981, he assumed the additional responsibilities of Assistant General Manager before the promotion to his existing post July 11, 1984.

Volk has also served on two very key selection committees: the 1992 United States Olympic Basketball Team (Dream Team I) and the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, MA where he supported the appointments of many of the game's monumental performers.

Jan and his wife Lissa have two children: Shari (6/21/76) and Matthew (11/20/80); the family lives in Wayland, MA. Jan approaches his various hobbies, furniture-building, photography, and US and European history, with the same intensity as his management of the Celtics.

M.L. CARR

Executive Vice-President, Director of Basketball Operations, and Head Coach

Energetic, invigorating, fiery, determined, unorthodox, focused. These are the words that describe M.L.Carr, a man who has professed a return to the top for the Boston Celtics. The 1996-97 season will be Carr's second as Head Coach and third as Director of Basketball Operations.

"First and foremost, I am a fan of the Boston Celtics. The Celtics have a great history but what we are trying to create now is an exciting up-tempo style that translates into winning basketball," said Carr. "I know it is tough to get back to that championship level, but we are going to get it done. I have the backing of Paul Gaston and Red Auerbach and we are committed to nothing but the best."

From his days as an enthusiastic player who always understood the commitment to winning, Carr was the epitome of Celtics' Pride throughout those days. The spirited Carr, playing a key role with the Celtics' 1981 and 1984 NBA World Champions, was one of the most popular players in the franchise's magnificent history. He was named Executive Vice President and Director of Basketball Operations for the organization June 14, 1994 and was named Head Coach June 20, 1995.

Carr has a distinctive approach to not only basketball but more importantly life: "If the young people have any doubts that their dreams and aspirations cannot happen, I have two examples to dispute that. Red Auerbach gave me the opportunity to play here and Paul Gaston provided me with the chance to run the organization. I love the Celtics, their fans, and the people of New England."

Carr signed with the Celtics as a free agent in September, 1979. In a complicated compensation settlement with the Detroit Pistons, the Celtics gave up Bob McAdoo in return for the signing of Carr plus the Celtics received from the Pistons two 1980 first round draft picks (both of which were later conveyed by Boston to Golden State in the incredible Robert Parish-Kevin McHale transaction).

A member of the Celtics from 1979 through 1985, Carr averaged 6.3 points in 363 regular season contests. He started all 12 encounters in the 1982 NBA Playoffs and was the team's high scorer in the first game of the opening round series with 21 in a win against Washington. He recorded 5.1 points in 64 playoff encounters and was a member of two NBA Champions. Upon retirement, Carr was a member of the team's scouting department before becoming Director of Community Relations commencing in 1991.

Under his direction, the Community Relations Department executed numerous district programs including the Stay In School Program which rewarded students with perfect attendance and taught youngsters the value of sports through the curriculum of their study.

Michael Leon (1/9/51) and his wife Sylvia have three children: Michael, Janine, and Andrea.

STUART LAYNE

Executive Vice-President of Marketing and Sales

Over the past decade, the business of professional sports has grown and changed dramatically as has the competitive environment within which the Boston Celtics must compete off the court. Stuart Layne, the Executive Vice-President of Marketing and Sales, who is responsible for implementing the Celtics' business plan, envisions the Celtics to be the foremost organization in pro sports in marketing and sales.

Layne, who has incorporated the team's strong heritage and the sophisticated wisdom of the team's fans, lists a chief goal of the organization to provide those fans with outstanding customer service and exceptional in-arena entertainment. Additionally, the Celtics plan to expand its business relationships with an emphasis on their corporate partners assisting in various New England communities and charity programs.

During the past two years, the Celtics have introduced many popular and successful programs including the Fleet Summer Jam and the Stop and Shop Family Section. The Summer Jam, this past season, refurbished inner-city basketball courts and youth centers in the New England communities of Hartford, Providence, Portland, and Nashua.

The Stop and Shop program provided affordable seats and free tickets to Celtics' home games for Stop and Shop customers. One of Layne's other goals is to have the Celtics' players develop an identity with the fans and the community through many promotional tactics as the rising stars represent not only the team but the city of Boston.

Promoted to his current position June 7, 1995, Layne served as Vice-President of Planning and Special Events since joining the staff in March 1994. He oversees corporate sales, promotions, marketing, ticket sales, publicity, and broadcast for the organization.

The native New Yorker received his Bachelor of Science in Communications from the Syracuse University Newhouse School. Layne, who spent twelve years in broadcasting, had on-air jobs at various west coast stations before joining CBS-radio in sales and management positions in New York and Chicago. While in Chicago, he transferred to the CBS-TV Network in sales where he was involved in selling sports, including the NBA. From 1984-1989, Layne was employed at Emmis Broadcasting, where he supervised radio stations in St. Louis, Minneapolis, and New York City. While with Emmis, he was involved in building New York's WFAN-Radio the nation's first all-sports radio station.

Formerly the Seattle Mariners' Vice-President of Marketing from 1989-1993, Layne formulated innovative promotional and marketing campaigns which transcended to that franchise's all-time attendance records. In 1992, the Mariners' marketing staff received the American Marketing Association's Gold Effie signifying the nation's most effective marketing program in sports and entertainment. Layne's experience in sports, broadcasting, research, and marketing will be a valuable asset as he oversees the Celtics' operation.

Stuart (11/21/53) and his wife Tracy have a daughter Sydny (12/11/87) and a son Yogi (1/12/91); the family resides in Andover, MA.

LARRY BIRD

Special Assistant

It was August 18, 1992 when Larry Bird, the player, disclosed that he had retired from the NBA after 13 seasons due to persistent back woes; it was also on that date that special assistant Larry Bird was born. The intelligence he so habitually exhibited while playing demanded a managerial role in the basketball operations domain.

Drafted by the Celtics as a junior eligible with the sixth pick in the 1978 draft, Bird immediately dominated the game in 1979-80, his rookie season, when he was named the league's Rookie of the Year after sparking the Celtics to the greatest one-season turnaround in league history (a 32-win improvement). He has a most impressive resume: 12 all-star berths (including MVP in 1982), 10 All-NBA teams, three all-defensive teams, three regular season MVP awards, and two playoff MVP awards, and the primary component in league titles in 1981, 1984, and 1986.

In 1986, perhaps Bird's best, he was chosen The Sporting News' Man of the Year, Associated Press Male Athlete of the Year, and NBA MVP in both the regular season and playoffs. He also won the long distance shootout at the NBA All-Star Weekend and recorded a triple-double in Boston's Game Six clincher over Houston in the NBA Finals.

Bird also holds several team records, including the most points ever scored by a Celtic in one game, 60, opposing Atlanta March 12, 1985 in New Orleans' Lakefront Arena. In 1986-87, he became the initial player in NBA chronicles to shoot 50% from the field and 90% from the free throw line in the same season; since, he accomplished the magnificent deed a second time the following season.

At his initial press conference, after signing his first professional contract June 8, 1979, Bird expressed: "I'm not promising anything except that I will give 100 percent every time I go out on the floor, and I'll play team ball. I won't sit on the bench with any broken fingernail." Truer words were never spoken.

Whether it was connecting on buzzer-beaters in successive games in 1985, hitting 71 straight free throws, amazing all by stealing an inbounds pass of Isiah Thomas, or reappearing from the locker room after a dangerous fall to the floor in the deciding game of a 1991 playoffs series, Bird dazzled all and always gave 100% no matter the physical liability.

Known for his witty charm, engaging personality and cocky attitude, Bird was never one to balk from a challenge or challenger. Before the 1986 shootout at the NBA All-Star Weekend, Bird informed his competitors: "I told all of the guys before the contest who was going to win. I just wanted to know who was going to come into second."

In his final season, Bird orchestrated one last accomplishment for all to retain in a 54-minute outing against Portland March 15. In that nationally televised double overtime titillating contest, Bird illuminated the Celtics to a 152-148 win with 49 points, including 16 in the fourth quarter, 14 rebounds, 12 assists, 4 steals, and a three-point field goal with two seconds left in regulation to tie the game.

Larry Joe (12/7/56) and his wife Dinah have two children: Connor and Mariah. Bird was born in West Baden, IN and attended high school at Springs Valley in French Lick, IN. He has four brothers and one sister; his mother's name is Georgia. Larry is an avid outdoorsman and has a passion for country music, auto racing, and the St. Louis Cardinals. He owns "Larry Bird's Boston Connection," a hotel/restaurant in Terre Haute, where a street was named in his honor (8/2/84).

DENNIS JOHNSON

Assistant Coach

One of the most prosperous individuals to ever wear an NBA uniform is also one of its most charming. Dennis Johnson, who has been in his current role as an assistant coach with the Boston Celtics since the 1993-94 season, is a wonderful representative for the game and is one its most distinguished figures.

DJ was drafted by Seattle in the second-round of the 1976 draft as a hardship case, the 29th pick overall. Three years later, he was selected MVP of the 1979 NBA Championship Series as he habitually demonstrated his superior skills at both ends of the floor and showed incomparable leadership qualities through his tenacious play.

After four seasons with the SuperSonics, Johnson was traded to Phoenix for former Celtics' player Paul Westphal in June of 1980. Johnson spent the next three seasons with the Suns, and he tallied his career high of 39 points vs. New York December 15, 1981. Then came June 27, 1983, a monumental day that changed the course of a decade as the Suns swapped DJ for Rick Robey as part of a blockbuster transaction that included draft picks.

From 1983-1990, this brilliant performer produced some of his most memorable moments while a member of the Celtics that included championships in 1984 and 1986. Who will forget his buzzer-beating jumper at Los Angeles which evened the 1985 NBA Finals at two apiece or his basket, after Larry Bird's famous steal against Detroit in Game Five of the 1987 playoffs, which climaxed an astonishing win with one second left? When the Celtics battled the mighty Lakers in the 1987 Finals, DJ scored 33 points in the sixth and final game, and in the series, he led the team with 56 assists and was second with 126 points scored.

The many highlights also include an NBA Finals-record 12 free throws made in a half June 12, 1984 vs. Los Angeles. An intended pass to Larry Bird instead was scored as a 75-foot basket in Game Two of the Celtics-Bucks 1986 playoff series. Johnson notched a four-point play at Milwaukee May 8, 1987 and posted a triple-double in the series clincher at New York in 1988. He was the eleventh player in NBA history to register 15,000 points and 5,000 assists in a career. In seven seasons in Boston, Johnson missed just one playoff game. For his unequalled hustle, clutch play, defensive prowess, and quick decision-making abilities, the Celtics retired Johnson's number 3 December 13, 1991.

DJ was chosen to the All-NBA Second Team in 1980 and to the All-NBA First Team in 1981. He was a member of the All-Defensive First or Second Team for nine straight seasons, including first team mentions from 1979-83 and in 1987; only Kareem Abdul-Jabbar (11) had a higher total (Bobby Jones was also chosen nine times).

His 14-year playing career spanned from 1976 to 1990; Johnson played in 1,100 regular season contests, started 673 times, and appeared in 35,954 minutes. He averaged 14.1 points and 5.0 assists, shot .445 (5,832-13,100) from the field, .172 (80-for-464) from 3-point range, and .797 (3,791-for-4,754) from the free throw line. He collected 5,499 assists, 4,249 rebounds, 1,477 steals, 675 blocks, and 15,535 points. During the playoffs, he started 117 times in 180 contests, played 6,994 minutes, and he averaged 17.3 points and 5.6 assists. He also averaged 11.8 points and shot .541 (20-for-37) from the floor in five All-Star Games.

Most importantly, he was an integral part of a 65% regular season winning percentage. After retiring as a player, Johnson remained a member of the Celtics' family as a scout for three seasons until his promotion to his current role.

DJ, who did not play high school basketball, attended Los Angeles Harbor Junior College in Wilmington, CA for two years before transferring to Pepperdine where he played one season in 1975-76.

Dennis Wayne Johnson (9/18/54) and his wife Donna have three children: sons Dwayne (6/6/80) and Daniel (7/29/94) and daughter Denise (2/16/92); the family lives in Lexington, MA. DJ is one of 16 children as he has 12 brothers and 3 sisters.

K.C. JONES

Assistant Coach

When M.L. Carr needed a strong, veteran coaching presence to fill out his coaching staff, the brief search concluded with the revered K.C. Jones. In summary, Jones has been part of the NBA for 29 seasons, has been to 15 NBA Finals and has won 12 World Championships. As a player, Jones won eight titles in nine seasons; as a head coach, he participated in five championship series, and won twice in ten seasons; and, as an assistant coach, he won two titles in 10 seasons. In 19 seasons as a player or head coach, he was part of 14 first-place finishers.

Jones, whose number 25, is retired in tribute to his successes with the Boston Celtics during his playing days from 1958-1967, also was elected to the Basketball Hall of Fame in 1988. Prosperity and Jones have been wedded since his collegiate playing days at the University of San Francisco where he teamed with future Celtics' great Bill Russell as a member of the 1955 and 1956 NCAA Championship teams.

Jones played his entire NBA career with the Celtics, a career which spanned 676 regular season games and 105 playoff contests covering nine seasons. Statistics do not fully serve justice to his role to pro basketball's greatest dynasty. He averaged 7.4 points, 4.3 assists, and 3.5 rebounds during the regular season and 6.4 points, 3.8 assists, and 3.0 rebounds during the playoffs where he collected championships in his first eight seasons as a professional player. But it was Jones' strong defensive play which were not seen in the box scores but were as a key ingredient in the team's opulence.

Upon the conclusion of his playing days, Jones started a lengthy coaching career as Head Coach of Brandeis University from 1967-1970 then joined the Harvard University staff as an assistant for the 1970-71 season. The following campaign, he rejoined the NBA, this time as an assistant with the Los Angeles Lakers who went on to win a league-record 69 regular season games, including 33 straight victories, and the World Championship. Jones' first pro head coaching role was with the American Basketball Association's San Diego Conquistadors in 1972-73.

In 1973, Jones was chosen Head Coach of the NBA's Capital Bullets and led that franchise to a 155-91 (.630) in three seasons and a trip to the 1975 NBA Finals where they fell to the Golden State Warriors. In 1976-77, Jones was an assistant with the Milwaukee Bucks' coaching staff.

When Tom Sanders became the Celtics' Head Coach during the 1978-79 season, Jones joined his staff as an assistant, a position he held under Dave Cowens and Bill Fitch, until being named the team's Head Coach June 7, 1983 after Fitch resigned his post. Jones' Celtics went an incredible 308-102 (.751) in the regular season and 65-37 (.637) in the playoffs during his tenure which spanned from 1983-1988; the team went to four NBA Finals in five seasons and won twice. Jones announced his resignation during the 1988 Playoffs to take a front office position with the Celtics upon conclusion of the post-season.

In 1989-90, Jones was an assistant coach with the Seattle SuperSonics, then was appointed Head Coach of that team until being released during 1991-92. Jones' next coaching role was with the Detroit Pistons in 1994-95 as an assistant under former Celtics' player Don Chaney.

Jones was drafted by the Celtics in 1956, entered the military service where he played at Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri during the 1956-57 and 1957-58 seasons, and even played with the Hartford Capitols of the now-defunct Eastern Basketball League in 1967-68. He was a member of the 1956 US Olympic Gold Medalists and was selected by the National Football League's Los Angeles Rams in the 1955 NFL Draft.

Jones (5/25/32) and his wife Ellen have a son Christopher. Jones, who was born in Taylor, Texas, attended Commerce High School in San Francisco.

JOHN KUESTER

Assistant Coach

John Kuester enters his seventh season with the Boston Celtics and his second as an assistant coach under M.L. Carr.

From 1990-95, Kuester's main role with the Celtics concentrated on preparing the entire basketball operations staff through video as the team's Video Coordinator/Scout. Examples included furnishing videos to the coaching staff when they held meetings with the players relating to Boston's next opponent and collecting miscellaneous tapes on collegiate projects that proved extremely valuable when the basketball staff huddled prior to draft time. His diverse duties also included scouting collegiate talent and aiding the coaching staff when they had specific demands pertaining to a certain skill of a Celtics' player that needed improvement.

Born in Richmond, Virginia, Kuester was a member of the Benedictine Cadets High School team that won three state championships, in his three varsity seasons, under the guidance of Warren Rutledge.

Kuester held the special pleasure of playing for the legendary Dean Smith and the University of North Carolina from 1973-1977. In his four seasons, the Tar Heels went to four NCAA tournaments, won a pair of Atlantic Coast Conference championships, and went to the NCAA Finals in 1977 against Marquette after defeating powerhouses Kentucky and UNLV to get to the title game. In his senior season, Kuester was voted the team's best defensive player for the second straight campaign and the Most Valuable Player of the ACC Tournament and the NCAA East Regionals.

Kuester earned another honor when he joined the NBA ranks. A third-round draft choice of the Kansas City Kings and the 53rd choice overall in the 1977 NBA Draft, he played in 78 games for that squad in his rookie season. The following season, he appeared in 33 games for the Denver Nuggets and his NBA career concluded with 24 games played for the Indiana Pacers in 1979-80. In 135 regular season contests, Kuester collected 451 points, 305 assists, 141 rebounds, and 83 steals in 1,527 minutes. He made 173 of 405 (.427) field goals and 105 of 126 (.833) free throws.

He began a lengthy coaching career as an assistant coach at the University of Richmond in 1980-81, followed by a two-year stint as an assistant to Rick Pitino at Boston University from 1981-83. Kuester then became the Terriers' Head Coach in 1983 and he was the youngest Division 1 head coach during his two-year stint at BU. He then became the Head Coach of George Washington University for the next five seasons before joining the Celtics.

John (2/6/55) and his wife Tricia have two children John III (4/13/87) and Katelyn (6/16/90); the family lives in Medfield, MA. Kuester lists playing tennis and spending quality time with his family as his favorite pastimes.

JON JENNINGS

Director of Basketball Development

The ideal combination of a successful equation in any business venture is knowledge through experience and vigor through youth. Usually, those qualities are reached by the acquisition of two diverse entities. In Jon Jennings, the Celtics boast those characteristics in one determined person.

Jennings has the responsibility for creating and overseeing comprehensive scouting schedules of NBA, CBA, and college games for the Celtics, a role he was given in September, 1994. He also helps to develop a system for the compilation, analysis, and evaluation of college and professional player statistical information. Additionally, he assists in the evaluation of college players prior to the annual college draft and of free agents and CBA players.

From the 1990-91 season through the 1993-94 campaign, Jon served as one of Chris Ford's assistant coaches. While maintaining a role as a coach, the team used Jon's perceptive scouting abilities as he surveyed many collegiate and professional talents and offered his observations to other's in upper management in key strategic meetings. During these four years, the Celtics advanced to the playoffs three times; Jennings generated various coaching techniques that are still utilized in the team's current system. It was also during this period that Jennings befriended Reggie Lewis - a camaraderie that developed into a strong bond.

Jennings joined the organization in the summer of 1986 as the club's initial Video Coordinator under the guidance of Jim Rodgers. When Rodgers became head coach in 1988, Jennings role expanded as he concentrated on preparing reports on future Celtics' opponents through statistical analysis, breaking down offensive and defensive game patterns, and formulating this information into game plans.

A native of Richmond, Indiana, Jon's impressive resume of basketball experience started while he attended Indiana University from 1981-85 as Jennings served Head Coach Bob Knight in various roles during his sophomore and junior years.

In 1983, Jennings served as a summer intern with the Indiana Pacers under the direction of George Irvine, the club's Vice-President of Basketball Operations. Upon Irvine's appointment to Indiana's head coaching position, Jennings began to scout and coordinate videos fulltime. Among other tasks, he, upon culmination of first-half action, would edit a two-minute tape used in the halftime discussion between players and coaches. It was at this young stage of his blossoming career that Jennings learned the ins-and-outs of the basketball business and seized precious wisdom in various facets.

Jon (10/2/62) is single and lives in Watertown, MA. A devotee of Winston Churchill, Jennings lists his interests as history, politics, reading, and flying. He is greatly committed to issues affecting children. Jennings is very active in community causes and serves on the Board of Directors for City Year, the Genesis Fund, the Big Brothers, the Daniel Marr Boy's and Girl's Club, the Kid's Fund, Caring for Children Foundation, and the Ford Hall Forum. Jon is co-founder of the Team Harmony Foundation with Lenny Zakim and the late Reggie Lewis; Team Harmony is a program that encourages youths to appreciate and respect each other's cultural diversities. In 1995, over 10,000 Massachusetts youngsters attended Team Harmony II at the FleetCenter.

RICK WEITZMAN

Head Scout

Head Scout Rick Weitzman holds the distinction of being the first Bostonian (the other is Dana Barros) to play for the Boston Celtics and to attend both high school and college in the city. The Celtics and Weitzman have a lengthy affiliation dating back to his playing days as a member of pro sports greatest dynasty in the mid-1960's. Weitzman currently enters his sixth season as the team's Head Scout and his thirteenth in the club's scouting department; he also served as an announcer.

Weitzman's role requires his appearance at the smallest of gymnasiums and fieldhouses to elaborate domed stadia as he maintains a never-ending search for the diamonds-in-the-rough. It is his knowledge, training, and keen observations that are often called upon when the basketball staff is huddled in meetings to discuss potential draft selections, free agents, or CBA products.

Rick was the first Northeastern University player to be drafted by an NBA team when the hometown Celtics chose him in the eighth round of the 1967 draft. Although he played just one season in the NBA, he performed for the Celtics in their 1968 championship season under the direction of player-coach Bill Russell.

Weitzman, who graduated from Northeastern in 1969 after his professional playing days concluded, was inducted into the school's hall of fame in 1982.

After a one-year stint with the New Haven Elms of the Eastern Basketball League in 1968-69, the Brookline High School graduate returned to the scholastic ranks as an English teacher (1970-1983) and head basketball coach (1970-1980) at Peabody (MA) High School. Weitzman's team compiled an impressive 135-67 (.668) record.

Rick rejoined the Celtics as the color analyst to Johnny Most during the 1980-81 and 1981-82 seasons. In 1982-83, Weitzman accepted a position as a volunteer assistant coach at Northeastern University.

In 1983, Rick began his current association with the Celtics as a part-time scout while conducting a private business enterprise. He has also filled-in as a color man with the Celtics television outlets, including SportsChannel. In 1988, Weitzman was promoted to full-time scout.

Rick (4/30/46) and his wife Carol have two daughters Alyssa (10/13/75), who is currently enrolled at Cornell, and Jennifer (9/23/77), who is a student at Syracuse University. The family lives in Peabody, MA. He lists playing tennis and softball as his hobbies and has a passing fancy for television and movie classics.

Ed Lacerte

Arnold Scheller

ED LACERTE

Head Athletic Trainer, Physical Therapist, and Strength and Conditioning Coordinator Ed Lacerte, the man responsible for keeping the Celtics' players in top condition throughout the arduous regular season, has a splendid background that positions him among an elite group within his profession.

A Licensed Physical Therapist, a Certified and Licensed Athletic Trainer, a Certified Strength and Conditioning Specialist, and someone who, in 1993, became Board Certified as a Sports Clinical Specialist by the American Physical Therapist Association, Lacerte is the only NBA Trainer with these credentials.

In 1993, the National Basketball Association Trainers Association (NBTA), in a vote of his peers, selected Lacerte as the twelfth annual recipient of "NBA Athletic Trainer of the Year". Other remarkable honors bestowed to Lacerte include being the Trainer to the "Dream Team," the inimitable 1992 gold medal-winning US Olympic Basketball Team, and Trainer at the 1996 US Olympic Gymnastics Trials held in the FleetCenter in June 1996.

A native of Lowell, Massachusetts, Lacerte collected his undergraduate degree in Physical Therapy from Boston University in 1982 and his Master's Degree in Education in 1987 from the same academy.

Lacerte was Head Trainer for the Boston University hockey and football teams from 1982 through 1985. He was employed in a physical therapy clinic and was a trainer on the interscholastic level for the next two years before his selection by the Celtics August 31, 1987.

During the summer of 1990, Lacerte serviced the basketball squad of the US Olympic Festival, the country's largest amateur multi-sport event, held in Minnesota. His skills were used in two previous US Olympic Festivals, those held in North Carolina, and Oklahoma. In 1991, Lacerte extended his knowledge as Head Trainer for the 1991 FIBA Junior World Championship in Edmonton, Alberta, Canada.

Lacerte is an associate of the APTA, the National Athletic Trainers Association, and the National Strength and Conditioning Association. He serves as the Treasurer of the NBTA, a post he has held for the past six years.

Lacerte is a frequent and eloquent speaker regarding physical therapy and spends part of his summer discussing the topic to a variety of organizations in the New England region.

Ed (9/25/60) and his wife Maureen have four children: Devin (2/21/86), Taylor (1/30/88), Arianna (9/11/89), and Graham (12/13/93); the family lives in Westford, Massachusetts.

ARNOLD SCHELLER, M.D.

Team Physician Arnold Scheller, M.D. has been the man responsible for the diagnosis and treatment of all injuries suffered by Celtics' players since September 25, 1987. Just over one year into his Celtics' career, Scheller's abilities were utilized in the sensitive removal of bone spurs in both of Larry Bird's heels. When the 1989-90 season began, one could hardly blame Scheller for the extra-special interest in the progress of Bird. As the season continued, and Bird regained his athletic flow, the surgery became ever-more successful. The previous season, Scheller's skills were applied in another successful surgical endeavor when Kevin McHale needed right foot surgery.

A native of Warwick, Rhode Island, Scheller was All-State in football and wrestling. 1996-97 • THE MEDIA

MEDIA INFORMATION

The Boston Celtics' Media Relations Department consisting of Director of Public Relations Jeff Twiss and Director of Publications and Information David Zuccaro would like to familiarize the working members of the media to some regulations designed to make your job easier. These rules are constructed for your benefit and it is crucial that the pass you are issued is visible on your body AT ALL TIMES when in the FleetCenter. Please contact us should you have any questions.

PRACTICE INFORMATION:

Times: Practices during the regular season are generally set one day in advance. Notices of practices following a home game will be posted at the bottom of the quote sheet from that evening's contest. The Celtics will usually hold practice at Brandeis University in Waltham, MA, but on occasion might utilize the FleetCenter. Directions to Brandeis University from Boston: Take the Southeast Expressway south to Exit 20 (the Mass Pike/Route 90 Exit). Get on the Mass Pike, go to the second set of toll booths at Weston, MA (the first toll booths are in Allston, MA). Go straight to Exit 15/Route 30 from the Weston toll booths. Take a right at the yield sign and proceed approximately 300 yards to a stop light, then turn right. Drive roughly 1/2 mile to the next stop light, then turn left onto River Road. From here, advance nearly 2 miles to the Brandeis University campus (you'll cross over railroad tracks and up a slight hill). The Gosman Sports and Convocation Center will be on your right. Parking: All media members are asked to park in the lot to the right as you enter the driveway. If this is full, parking is available behind the arena next to the tennis courts. Parking pass applications for proper parking clearance can be obtained from Jeff Twiss or Brandeis University Security. Miscellaneous: Total driving distance is about 15 miles and should take 20-25 minutes driving time. At last check, toll costs will be $1.00. Depending on time of day, and travel conditions, a cab ride will cost about $35.00. Interview Rules: Only accredited media will be allowed to attend Celtics' practices as all practices are closed to the general public. Photographers: All photographers must shoot from the sideline adjacent to the running track near the arena floor. Additionally, the coaches' office, the training room, the weight room, the back hallway, and the locker room are off limits to the media at all times.

SEASON CREDENTIALS:

The Celtics will issue full season passes which will be limited to those members of the media that cover 75% or more of our home games. For those media members who receive this pass, your photo will accompany it. Be advised that this pass is required at each game and display it at all times.

SINGLE-GAME CREDENTIALS:

Media members wishing to cover an individual home game must contact Jeff Twiss or David Zuccaro at least 24 hours in advance of that game they wish to cover (or by 5:00 P.M. Friday for all weekend games). Single-game passes will be issued on a space-available basis. The credentials must be confirmed by the Celtics' PR staff before admittance.

STILL PHOTOGRAPHER AND TELEVISION VIDEOGRAPHERS CREDENTIALS:

Season credentials will not be issued to photographers or television videographers. For those media outlets that cover every game, but with different personnel, one pass per location will be available at the press gate for each game. For example, if the Daily Planet has two photographer positions, there will be two passes marked "Daily Planet Photographer" left for pick-up, upon presentation of proper identification, at the press gate for each game. One videographer pass per television outlet will be available for post-game sound. Credentialed photographers must sit at their designated location at the baseline. Photographers will not be allowed to sit on the sidelines at the FleetCenter, as any area not specified as space for photographers are off limits. No photography of any Celtics' game shall be released to any individual other than the entity for whom the pass was issued and subject to the rules governing such use as described on the reverse side of the credential. Any variation to this policy will result in forfeiture of future credentials. Single game photograph credentials will be issued on a space available basis.

PRESS GATE ENTRANCE:

The press gate is located on the East Side of the FleetCenter (down the access road between the 150 Causeway Street building and the FleetCenter). The press gate will open two hours prior to game-time. Access to the FleetCenter is obtained by sliding your media pass bar code through a swipe machine at the press gate entrance. All passes are coded to allow access for that event only. Celtics' season credentials will not allow access to any event other than a Celtics' game. Single game passes are coded for that night's event only.

MEDIA INFORMATION

PRESS ROOM:
The press room consists of the dining facility and the working press area and is located on level three of the FleetCenter. After entering the building through the press entrance, proceed to the elevator to level three and the press room is straight ahead. Proper credentials are needed for admittance and a pregame meal. Food and beverage service will become available two hours prior to game time.

SEATING:
Media will be assigned seats at either courtside tables, end zone seat tables, or in the main upper press box (level nine). Media members are encouraged to write from all of these locations due to space restrictions in the working area of the press room. Jeff Twiss and David Zuccaro have the final say in all seating arrangements. The quarter play-by-play sheets and halftime box scores are distributed as quickly as possible to all locations and Stat Man monitors are available in selected locales. If any media person is seated in any location other than the assigned seat, that person will be asked to return to his/her seat; please avoid a potentially embarrassing situation.

LOCKER ROOM ACCESS:
The locker rooms are located on level three of the FleetCenter (court level), down the corridor from the press room. Season credentials will have locker room access. Single-game passes must have the locker room access card attached to the pass to allow for locker room entry. NBA media regulations govern the accessibility to the locker rooms prior to games. In accordance with NBA policy, both the Celtics' and visitors' locker rooms will be closed 45 minutes prior to game time and will re-open 10 minutes after the game. At no point are autographs to be asked of any personnel. Still photographers will not be permitted in any locker room.

POST-GAME COACHES INTERVIEWS ROOM:
The home coach will be available following each game in the coach's interview room located across the corridor from the Celtics' locker room. The sound system in this room can also be heard in the press room and press box.

PRACTICES AT THE FLEETCENTER:
Access to any Celtics' practice held at the FleetCenter is through the same press gate entrance as on game nights. Season credentials will give you access to these practices as well. Those media members without season credentials should call the PR office the day before a practice to obtain a pass.

FLEETCENTER PARKING:
There is no reserved parking for a Celtics' game. There is a five-level, 1,150-space underground parking garage located directly under the FleetCenter and North Station. The parking lot is accessed via Nashua Street. Additionally, there is suitable parking available in the immediate area of the FleetCenter.

AUTOGRAPHS:
All requests for autographs for any team personnel must be directed to the Celtics' Community Relations Department. Any media member seeking to obtain autographs in the post-game locker room will have their credential revoked.

VISITORS:
There is no standing room in the FleetCenter. All entrants to the building must have either a ticket to the game or a pre-arranged assigned seat.

PLAYER WARMUPS:
No media member shall approach a player during pre-game warmups for any purpose. The floor is off-limits to media personnel during this period, a rule that will be strictly enforced. Players are available for interviews in the locker room during the accessed period. Television and radio interviews may be arranged through the Celtics' PR Department subject to timing and availability.

TICKETS:
Media members who wish to purchase tickets to any Celtics' home or road game are advised to request these tickets through the Celtics' PR personnel. All efforts will be made to fulfill each request; however, there is no guarantee that each will be realized.

TRAVEL ARRANGEMENTS:
All media members who wish to cover any Celtics' road game must notify the Celtics' PR staff by Friday of the preceding week. The Celtics will not make any hotel reservations for travelling media.

ANNOUNCERS

BOB COUSY, COLOR COMMENTARY, ROAD-TV

One of the most famous moments in basketball annals came March 17, 1963 during "Bob Cousy Day" held at Boston Garden. Cousy, trying to compose himself while giving an emotional speech, was honored in a very unique way as an awkward, almost tense, silence was broken when a fan in the Garden's upper balcony yelled an immediate classic: "We love ya, Cooz!"

For thirteen years, "the Houdini of the Hardwoods" was a dominant force in the league as he created a national stir in a sport suffering from minimum recognition in its infantile stages. He is the mold to which contemporary great point guards are compared. Bob was the leader of the Celtics' famous fast break and during his tenure from 1950-1963 was a member of six World Champions and 13 all-star berths. The recipient of many honors, Bob was elected to the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in 1970 and was named to the NBA's 25th Anniversary Team in 1970 and the league's 35th Anniversary Team in 1980. Among his many awards: league MVP in 1957, All-NBA First Team for ten straight years from 1952-1961, All-NBA Second Team twice (1962 and 1963), and the NBA All-Star Game MVP in 1954 and 1957. Bob led the NBA in assists eight times; in fact, for eight consecutive seasons ranging from 1953-1960.

In 924 regular season games, Cousy averaged 18.4 points, 7.5 assists, and 5.2 rebounds. In 109 postseason encounters, he collected 18.5 points, 8.6 assists, and 5.0 rebounds. He still owns the NBA single-game playoff records for most free throws made (30) and attempted (32) in a game against Syracuse played March 21, 1953.

He has been broadcasting Celtics' basketball since the 1974-75 season.

Born in New York, NY, he attended high school at Andrew Jackson in Queens and played four years of college ball at Holy Cross from 1946-1950 where he was a member of the 1947 NCAA Champions. Bob was drafted by the Tri-Cities Hawks in 1950, traded to the Chicago Stags for Gene Vance that same year, then became a Celtic (for $8,500, name drawn out of a hat) when the Stags' franchise folded.

After his incomparable playing career, Cousy served as a head coach in the collegiate and professional ranks. Commencing with the 1963-64 season and continuing through the 1968-69 campaign, Bob was the head coach at Boston College where his squads put together a successful stretch that included winning percentages of better than 80% in three of his final four seasons. Overall, those BC teams went 117-38 (.755) and that attainment helped launch a move into coaching the NBA's Cincinnati Royals.

Boston traded Cousy to Cincinnati for Bill Dinwiddie in 1969, when he briefly returned to playing. He appeared in 7 games as player-coach for the Royals during the 1969-70 season and coached the team that entire campaign through 22 games into the 1973-74 season - the team's second as the Kansas City-Omaha Kings.

Cousy became the first Vice-President and trustee of the Basketball Hall of Fame and later became the first hall member to serve as President (May, 1989). He was Commissioner of the American Soccer League from 1975-1980. In 1993, Cousy appeared in the movie "Blue Chips"; released the following year, the flick also starred the Orlando Magic's Shaquille O'Neal and veteran actor Nick Nolte.

Robert Joseph Cousy (8/9/28), and his wife Missy, live in Worcester, MA.

TOM HEINSOHN
COLOR COMMENTARY, HOME-TV; PLAY-BY-PLAY, ROAD-TV

Tom Heinsohn

Tom Heinsohn is a true representative of Boston Celtics' pride. His accomplishments as a player were recognized in the retirement of his number 15 and his selection to the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame; he coached two Celtics' squads to NBA championships; and, he continues to flourish as the team's voice on all televised broadcasts.

He donned the Celtics' uniform from 1956-1965 and was a principal member of eight championship teams. Heinsohn was selected the NBA's Rookie of the Year in 1957, was a member of the All-NBA Second Team four times (1961, 1962, 1963, 1964) and was honored with six berths to the NBA All-Star Game (1957, 1961-1965).

A spectacular performer on the court, Tom owned a killer soft hook-shot among a wide array of offensive moves that were nearly impossible to stop. He was the team's most proficient playoff scorer during successful championship drives in 1957, 1960, 1961, and 1963. He averaged 18.6 points and 8.8 rebounds in 654 regular season contests and 19.8 points and 9.2 boards in 104 post-season encounters. Heinsohn was elected to the Hall of Fame in 1985-86.

Four years after his retirement as a player, Tom was appointed the Head Coach of the Celtics. Like his playing career, Heinsohn's coaching tenure was punctuated by prosperity, as he directed the 1974 and 1976 squads to World Championship titles, won Atlantic Division crowns five times, was picked the league's Coach of the Year in 1973, and collected a 427-263 (.619) regular season record and a 47-33 (.588) playoff mark.

Entering his 15th year broadcasting Celtics' basketball on SportsChannel, Heinsohn has also served as the team's play-by-play man for the past six seasons on their road outlets. Tom handled CBS' NBA coverage for seven years, and also did commentary for NCAA basketball for four years on CBS.

When Tom is not covering basketball, he is a chartered life underwriter with the Bostonian Group of Chestnut Hill, MA. An accomplished painter, Tom's works have graced art shows across the nation.

Thomas William Heinsohn was born in Jersey City, NJ. He attended high school at St. Michael's in Union City, NJ and college at Holy Cross in Worcester, MA. At Holy Cross, Tom averaged 22.1 ppg and 15.5 rebounds in 81 contests over four years; in his senior season, in 1955-56, he amassed 27.4 points and 21.1 rebounds in 27 outings. He was a territorial first-round choice of Boston in 1956.

Tom (8/26/34) and his wife Helen live in Newton, MA.

Mike Gorman

MIKE GORMAN, PLAY-BY-PLAY, HOME-TV

Boston Celtics' fans have been blessed with a fabulous tradition on the court and that excellence has trickled through to the broadcasting booth where Mike Gorman, an incisive play-by-play man with a wealth of basketball knowledge, begins his 15th year with the Celtics. The critically-acclaimed Gorman, a native of Dorchester, MA, has the enviable background of watching the dynasty-laden teams of the 60's.

His experience in broadcasting is extensive. Formerly, the Sports Director at WPRI-TV in Providence, Mike also served as the voice of the University of Rhode Island on WPRO-Radio. Mike later handled the play-by-play on television for the Providence Friars, and received the Associated Press award for his work in 1980.

During the 1980's, Mike was the primary announcer for ESPN's Big East Game of the Week. More recently, he has done college basketball for CBS, the 1992 Summer Olympics for NBC, and continues as the lead announcer for the Big East Television Network.

Mike and his wife Teri run KTM Productions in Providence where they live with their daughter Kristen.

Spencer Ross

SPENCER ROSS, PLAY-BY-PLAY, RADIO

Spencer Ross, an award-winning broadcaster with a vivacious personality, has been called a "Man of All Seasons" for a career that has spanned nearly three decades. Ross, who joined the Boston Celtics' radio broadcast team starting with the 1995-96 campaign, instantly earned positive acclaim with his energetic and dissecting style. Currently, Ross is the voice of the Celtics, the NFL's New York Jets during their preseason televised broadcasts, and college football on CBS-Radio.

His distinctive voice has entertained and informed fans of almost ever professional sports team in the New York-New Jersey area including basketball's Nets and Knicks of the NBA and the Americans of the ABA, hockey's Devils, Islanders, and Rangers of the NHL and the Golden Blades of the WHA, football's Jets and Giants of the NFL, the Generals of the USFL, and the Stars of the WFL, baseball's Yankees, and tennis' Sets. Ross has broadcasted several national sporting events ranging from college football on CBS-Radio to the NASL Game of the Week on the USA Cable Network. He was a sports anchor on WCBS-Radio in New York for 13 years and broadcasted horse racing from Yonkers and Roosevelt for 10 years on WOR-TV.

Ross' lengthy career in the field began in his final two years of study at Florida State University, where he earned a basketball scholarship, as he called Seminoles' Basketball and Baseball in that school's initial broadcasting phase. After a stint in the Service, Ross, in 1967, became the play-by-play man of the ABA's New Jersey Americans (known today as the New Jersey Nets).

Ross, who broadcasted Yankees' Baseball from 1985-1987, earned an Emmy in 1987 for play-by-play calling. He has served as a Jets' broadcaster on either TV or radio since 1978 and twice was named the state's best play-by-play man during that tenure. Spencer also held the enviable position of calling Knicks' games during their 1973 championship season and called that team's games for three full seasons and parts of 10 others. Ross was also the original TV voice of the Islanders, where he called games for five seasons, announced Rangers' hockey for two full seasons and parts of twelve seasons, and broadcasted Devils' hockey for two seasons.

Spencer, who resides in Salem, MA, has three children: Stephan and twins David and John. Ross, who majored in American History, likes to visit US historical sites during his visits to various NBA cities, and he also enjoys listening to jazz music and cooking. Additionally, Ross is an avid runner who has participated in three Boston Marathons and two New York Marathons in the last five years.

Cedric Maxwell

CEDRIC MAXWELL, COLOR COMMENTARY, RADIO

Cedric Maxwell was the perfect complement to Boston Celtics' teams that won five division titles in six seasons from 1980-1985. An engaging personality who was as magnetic as any who donned the team's uniform, Max was a deadly offensive low-post player who doubled as an equally tenacious defender; he led the NBA in field goal percentage in 1979 and 1980 and often had the task of stopping the likes of Julius Erving, Jamaal Wilkes, and Marques Johnson when those players were at the pinnacle of their games.

Max will be forever recognized as the MVP of the 1981 NBA Finals as he led the Celtics past Houston for the team's thirteenth NBA Championship. In the six games against the Rockets, he averaged 17.7 points and 9.2 rebounds and grabbed 34 offensive rebounds; additionally, he shot .568 (42-74) from the floor. Overall, in the 1981 NBA Playoffs, he compiled 16.1 points and 7.4 rebounds in 35.2 minutes, shot .580 (101-174) from the field, and started all 17 games. He was also a key contributor with the 1984 World Champs, which edged the Los Angeles Lakers in seven games.

The well-liked Max developed an immediate following among Celtics fans as he was one of the few bright spots in the 1977-78 and 1978-79 seasons. In 1978-79, he averaged a career-high 19.0 points and the following season he led the NBA with a 60.9% field goal percentage which remains a Celtics' record. Max also holds team marks for most free throws made (574) and attempted (716) in a season in 1978-79.

Maxwell played in 835 regular season games (607 with Boston) and 102 post-season contests (88 with the Celtics). He shot .559 (2,786-4,984) from the floor, went to the line 4,592 times, and made 3,598 of those shots (.784). He also started all 68 of Boston's post-season affairs from 1980-1984. After the 1985 season, he was traded to the Los Angeles Clippers, with a 1986 first-round draft choice, for Bill Walton. His playing career ended with the Rockets after the 1987-88 campaign.

Maxwell was a college basketball color analyst for Raycom Sports covering the Metro Conference prior to his current broadcasting role. In the summer of 1996, he coached the Long Island Surf of the United States Basketball League.

Cedric Bryan Maxwell (11/21/55) was born in Kinston, NC and attended that city's high school. He has a degree in Black Literature and Geography from UNCC.

NBA COMMUNITY PROGRAMS

The NBA, its teams, players and coaches support programs dedicated to helping build a better future for all people, with a special emphasis on youth.

The 1996-97 season marks the debut of the NBA's league-wide community outreach initiative entitled, the NBA TeamUp program. Its primary goal is to encourage youth to become actively involved in their communities. TeamUp helps young people develop an understanding of critical issues facing society and focuses on their ability to make a difference in the lives of others through community service projects. Program components include public service announcements, motivational visits by NBA spokesmen and players and a national youth service award.

This season the league also introduces the NBA Sportsmanship Initiative, a program designed to recognize and promote the importance of sportsmanship on and off the court. The nationwide program, implimented by the NBA in conjunction with the National Federation of State High School Associations, targets high school student athletes participating in basketball. Each year, an NBA player will be selected to receive the NBA Sportsmanship Award for demonstrating sportsmanship throughout the season.

The NBA also continues its support of Black History Month, CARE, the Martin Luther King, Jr. holiday, the National Committee to Prevent Child Abuse and Reading is Fundamental through a variety of community outreach efforts.

In addition, the NBA's 29 teams remain actively involved in supporting and implimenting various programs that positively impact their local communities in the United States and Canada.

Number retired in his honor
† Name retired in his honor

Of the 269 players to have worn a Celtic uniform during a regular-season or playoff game, each one's jersey number has been recorded here except the following (where research has failed): In order of season:
Earl Shannon, 5 games, 1948-49
Ward Gibson, 2 games, 1949-50
Bob Houbregs, 2 games, 1954-55

Notes:
Sometimes the same number was worn by more than one player during a season. Occasionally, for a variety of reasons including lost baggage, a player wore a different number for a game or two. No effort has been made to compile those exceptions.

CELTICS SELECTED TRANSACTIONS

12/11/46	Head Coach Honey Russell announced that Boston signed two Boston Yanks' (National Football League) football players, Hal Crisler and Don Eliason, and Gerard Kelly of the Jersey City team of the American Football League.
04/25/50	Ed Macauley selected from the St. Louis Bombers in the dispersal draft.
10/05/50	Bob Cousy, who was drafted by Tri-Cities but refused to play for them, had his rights traded to the Chicago Stags for Gene Vance. The Stags almost immediately folded operations. Less than a month prior to the season opener, Cousy was selected by Boston. Celtics' owner Walter Brown had the first pick in this special lottery involving the Stags three top players, but passed. Next up: New York's Ned Irish, who drew Max Zaslofsky. Then Philadelphia's Eddie Gottlieb selected Andy Phillip. The third and final name in Syracuse owner's Danny Biasone's hat was Cousy. Commissioner Maurice Podoloff devised the concept of placing the three player names in a hat with affixed price tags: $15,000 on Zaslofsky; $10,000 on Phillip, and $8,500 on Cousy.
10/14/51	Fort Wayne traded Bill Sharman (acquired by the Pistons from the Washington Capitols in the dispersal draft) as the player to be named later in an earlier deal that sent Bob Harris and $10,000 (later used by Boston to purchase Bob Brannum from Sheboygan) for the NBA rights to Charlie Share. Sharman, who played baseball, was chosen by the Pistons as the player to be named later because they thought he would select baseball over basketball. It was announced October 14th that Sharman turned down an offer to play baseball in Cuba; he signed with Boston the same day.

ALL-TIME HIGHS & LOWS

All records are regular season only, and do not include those games played before the inception of the 24-second shot clock in 1954-55. Due to incomplete information, some records are left as unofficial; in these instances, highest and lowest possibilities are noted based on NBA records (for example, Boston's best 3rd quarter output is listed as 49 but could be as high as 50 or as low as another 49). These extremes are factual due to various research.

CELTICS HONORED PLAYERS

TOP EFFORTS

The following figures are career-highs of all players who have had their numbers retired by the Celtics. The figures include high games with members of other organizations. Bob Cousy's, Ed Macauley's and Bill Sharman's totals are incomplete due to lack of data; those marks are represented with asterisks. Jim Loscutoff has the nickname "Loscy" etched in the rafters rather than his number 18 which was kept active while Dave Cowens played. The first lines are regular season highs; the lines below are post-season highs.

HARTFORD CIVIC CENTER

The Boston Celtics played 66 regular season games in the Hartford Civic Center dating back to January 18, 1975 when they beat the Houston Rockets 123-101. The Celtics finished at 46-20 in those 66 games, and sold out the Civic Center 34 times including 17 consecutive occasions from February 23, 1986 through March 4, 1991. The Celtics played three games in each season starting in 1974-75 with the following exceptions: 5 in 1975-76, 6 in 1976-77, 2 in 1979-80, and 5 in 1980-81; the Green was scheduled to play 6 games in 1977-78 but the last three were canceled due to the collapse of the Civic Center's roof. The last game was played April 15, 1995 when Boston pounded the Detroit Pistons 129-104.

FACTS ABOUT THE PARQUET FLOOR

The parquet floor made the transition from the Boston Garden into the FleetCenter – the Celtics' new home. The parquet floor is the focus of fascination for many fans and the following is a sampling of the questions that tend to be asked:

Q. Is this the same floor that was used from the original days of the Celtics?

A. In 1946, Celtics Owner Walter Brown planned a basketball floor to be built in Boston Arena where the Celtics played home games along with Boston Garden. Pieces of the floor have replaced over the years; however, some of the pieces may be the same as used in 1946 when the floor was originally built.

Q. How was the floor built?

A. It was built in 1946 of hardwood, from a forest in Tennessee, originally used to build barracks during World War II. The cost was in the $10,000-$11,000 range. The floor was manufactured because of a shortage of materials following World War II. This shortage caused the East Boston Lumber Company to construct the floor from scraps, fitting them together in an alternation pattern. The original parquet floor was moved from Boston Arena to Boston Garden in December, 1952.

Q. How many squares of parquet are used and what are the dimensions?

A. The parquet floor has 247 panels, each approximately 5'-by-5' and 1 1/2" thick. The panels are held together by wood planks and brass screws, with the help of 988 bolts. The floor is pieced together in two and 1/2 hours by a group of men known as the "Bull Gang."

Q. How many bolts does it take to secure the floor?

A. There are 988 bolts used.

Q. Where are the dead spots?

A. From Red Auerbach: "The parquet floor is synonymous with the Celtics. It is a good floor, a very good floor. The so-called dead spots on the floor? If teams felt it was a poor floor, I used it for an advantage by playing with their minds. That usually worked. When teams did beat us on the rare occasion, they never complained. The strange thing was that there were more dead spots in old Madison Square Garden than in Boston. Believe me, I played and coached there on many occasions; I know."

Q. When was the logo put at center court?

A. 1973.

Q. What about the resurfacing of the floor?

A. It was laid in 1946, and has been resurfaced several times including 1972, 1993, and in 1995 when the floor was moved into the FleetCenter.

4 1992 Boston ended an 0-4 drought on this date with a 104-98 win at Cleveland in Game 2 of their playoffs series. The Cavs were 36-6 at home entering that contest and two of the losses were to the Celtics.

5 1969 Bill Russell and Sam Jones ended their Celtics careers with a 108-106 seventh game victory over the Los Angeles Lakers to give Boston its 11th NBA World Championship in 13 years. While Russell played all 48 minutes and accounted for 21 rebounds and 6 points in bowing out as a player-coach and Jones added 24 points before fouling out, it was a Don Nelson basket that finally secured the win. With little more than a minute left, after the Lakers pared the Celtics lead from 17 to 1, and with the 24-second clock winding down, Nelson's desperation 15-footer hit the back of the rim, bounced straight up about three feet, then dramatically dropped straight through the basket to give Boston a three point lead. The victory spoiled Lakers owner Jack Kent Cooke's premature celebration plans which included a marching band and balloons prominently exhibited from the rafters.

1981 Boston defeated the Houston Rockets 98-95 in Game One of the 1981 World Championship in Boston Garden. Larry Bird connected on one of his most famous shots ever – a flying followup that he converted from his right-hand to his left hand (it would be close to impossible for him to have converted the shot from his right hand) in mid-air, with his momentum taking him out of bounds, of his missed shot. The shot supported Boston to the win, as they were down at the time of the shot. Bird collected 21 rebounds and 18 points.

1982 In a double OT contest, the Celtics eliminated the Washington Bullets 131-126 in the Boston Garden. The Celtics won the series 4-1.

1991 In dramatic fashion, Larry Bird, after a post-fourth game challenge to his hometown fans, delighted the faithful with a mid-third quarter return after a serious fall with 4:23 remaining (Boston led 48-46) in the second quarter. Bird's face made contact with the floor resulting in a bruise under the right eye, and a return unknown. Then in Superman-like custom, Bird charged out of the lockerroon resulting in mass delirium. After he re-entered the game with 6:46 left in the third quarter and Boston leading 73-71, the Celtics then went on a 39-25 run before Indiana nearly made a miraculous comeback by cutting Boston's lead to 122-121 with 3.4 seconds left. Boston barely held on to win 124-121, clinching the best of five series 3 games to 2 over the Indiana Pacers. Little-used Derek Smith made his first major impact as a Celtic with 12 points in 22 minutes, while playing tenaciously on the defensive end.

1993 The Celtics devastating season ended in controversial style as the Charlotte Hornets eliminated the Green 3-1, 104-103. The Celtics made one of the greatest comebacks in league history, down 88-70 after three, to take a 103-102 lead with 42.7 seconds left; but a backcourt violation by Rick Fox with 21.9 seconds remaining gave the Hornets the ball. After a missed shot, Charlotte retained possession when the ball went out-of-bounds of a Celtics' defender. Alonzo Mourning then hit a 21-footer from the top of the key for the win with .4 seconds left despite .9 seconds showing on the clock. Kevin McHale, in his last gave ever, then threw a perfect inbounds pass to Dee Brown who nearly completed a miraculous finish. What could have been a foul or goaltending went uncalled.

1995 In what would be the last basketball game played in the hallowed structure of the Boston Garden, the Orlando Magic eliminated the Celtics 3 games to 1, 95-92 in front of consecutive sellout number 661. Boston's Dominique Wilkins tallied 22 points and 18 rebounds, while Sherman Douglas totalled 21 points. Orlando, which led by 8 at the half and by as many as 10 in the third quarter, trailed 72-71 late in the same quarter thanks to a 16-6 run; Orlando led 73-72 after three. Wilkins was immense in the frame as he posted 12 points and 7 rebounds. In the fourth, Orlando opened up an 89-83 lead until Douglas' 3-point field goal brought the home team within 3 with 4:34 to play. Another "3" by Douglas gave Boston a 91-90 lead with 2:36 remaining, but the Magic took the lead for good on Anfernee Hardaway's slam dunk with 1:46 left. After Shaquille O'Neal made one of two from the charity stripe with 1:08 remaining, Boston had a chance to tie when Wilkins was sent to the free throw line; after making the first, he missed the second following a timeout by Orlando with 16.2 ticks to play. Boston had the last possession, down by 3 after a pair of free throws by Horace Grant, but Douglas' 3-point attempt was blocked with 6.9 left and another possession resulted in failure as time expired.

1986 The Celtics eliminated the Atlanta Hawks four games to one, 132-99 in the Boston Garden. Boston, which led 66-55 at the half, entered the fourth quarter with a commanding 102-61 advantage.

9 1981 The Celtics beat the Houston Rockets 94-71 in the third game of the NBA Finals. The Rockets 71 points matched the NBA Finals low set by the Syracuse Nationals in 1955. Houston's 30 first half points were a record low as well.

1982 Boston defeated the Philadelphia 76ers 121-81 in the Boston Garden. The series opener was Boston's largest margin of victory in any playoffs game.

10 1974 Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's spectacular 15-foot sky-hook from the right corner with three seconds remaining in the second OT gave Milwaukee a 102-101 victory over Boston in the sixth game of their title series in the Boston Garden. Abdul-Jabbar's basket gave him 34 points in the contest, spoiling John Havlicek's magnificent corner shot over the Bucks star center with eight seconds left that gave Boston a one point lead.

1992 Out of the lineup since April 3 due to back pain, Larry Bird returned to the squad with Boston up 2-1 in their Eastern Conference Semifinals series against Cleveland; however, the Cavaliers won in the Boston Garden 114-112 in overtime despite a career-high 42 points from Reggie Lewis. Bird scored 4 points in 17 minutes.

12 1974 The Celtics won their twelfth championship with a 102-87 victory at the Milwaukee Bucks in the seventh game of a tremendous series. A sag defense frustrated Kareem Abdul-Jabbar as he is shut out for a pivotal 17:58 stretch from late in the first period to early in the third period in which Boston established a 17 point lead. Tom Heinsohn won the first of his two titles as a head coach. The road team won the last four games of this series and five total.

17 1987 The Celtics overcame the Milwaukee Bucks 119-113 in the seventh game of their Eastern Conference Semifinals series at Boston Garden. Milwaukee led by one point entering the final quarter, but Larry Bird scored 13 of his 31 points in the decisive frame. The Bucks, leading 108-100, were 0-for-10 from the floor in the final 5:25 of the game, scoring just 3 points. Danny Ainge was rendered unavailable for the final 16:43 because of a right knee injury, but replacement Jerry Sichting singed the Bucks with two key hoops during Boston's rally.

1991 For the first time since 1982, the closing game of a series involving the Celtics went to an overtime period, as the Green fell to the World Champions' Pistons 117-113 at Auburn Hills. Despite playing without an injured Robert Parish (sprained left ankle), the Celtics miraculously fought back from an 80-65 deficit with 2:47 left in the third; a lineup of McHale-Bird-Pinckney-Brown-Lewis played without a substitute for all but the final 12 seconds of OT. With 58 seconds left in regulation, a Kevin McHale tip-in was denied by referee Jack Madden due to offensive interference, although replays showed otherwise (the score was tied at 103 at the time). McHale ended the night with 34 points, Joe Dumars with 32 (25 in the first half). It was the first time since 1952 that the Celtics were eliminated from the post-season in an overtime game.

22 1988 In the seventh game of the Eastern Conference Semifinals won 118-116 by Boston, the Celtics and Atlanta Hawks shot a combined .588, the second highest mark in playoff history. Larry Bird and Dominique Wilkins performed marvelously, as Bird scored 34 points (15-24, 1-3, 3-3) including 20 in the 4th quarter (9-10 field goals) and Wilkins scored 47 points (19-33, 1-2, 8-9) including 16 in the final frame. In the famous fourth quarter, the teams shoot 72% (Boston 12-15 fgs, Atlanta 14-21) from the floor in Boston Garden.

The game also featured Robert Parish's skirmish with Bill Laimbeer. For throwing punches, Parish was fined $7,500 and suspended for the next game. The fine was the second largest in league history, behind Kermit Washington's $10,000 setback (also a 60-day suspension for his actions against Rudy Tomjanovich in 1977).

1988 Kevin McHale connected on a three-point field goal with 5 seconds remaining in the first overtime of the Boston Celtics eventual 119-115 double overtime victory over the Detroit Pistons in the second game of the Eastern Conference Finals.

Ainge also made an 18-footer with 25 seconds left to make it 108-105. With 8 seconds left in the third quarter and Detroit leading 80-79, Adrian Dantley and Vinnie Johnson collided sending Dantley to the hospital with a concussion.
1990 Dave Gavitt was appointed Senior Executive Vice-President.

31 1984 With the Celtics an apparent loser, Gerald Henderson stole James Worthy's inbounds pass to Byron Scott with 13 seconds left in the fourth quarter to tie the game at 113. The Celtics eventually won the second game 124-121 in overtime to tie the series at 1 game apiece. Uncharacteristically, Magic Johnson dribbled out the final seconds of the fourth quarter before finally passing to Bob McAdoo, whose shot was taken after the buzzer sounded. Scott Wedman's jumper with 14 seconds left gave Boston a 122-121 lead, and a Robert Parish steal from McAdoo after that protected Boston's victory in the Boston Garden.

The fifth game win gave Boston a 3-2 lead and featured many highlights including John Havlicek's running banker which gave Boston a 111-110 lead with 1 second remaining in the second overtime. That play was immediately followed by Paul Westphal's timeout with his knowledge that the Suns had none remaining; because of this, Boston was given a technical foul shot, which White converted, but allowed the Suns to inbound the ball from center court rather than under their own defensive basket. Gar Heard's improbable 22-foot launch at the buzzer tied the score at 112 and sent the game to a third overtime session, where little used Glenn McDonald, replacing Paul Silas who fouled out, attained instant hero status by scoring six crucial points in the decisive drive in the Boston Garden.
